

"America's First Car"

HAYNES

The Car Which Time Has Tested Longest

THE Haynes was the first car ever built in the United States. And for 26 years (think what that means!) Haynes engineers have been adding to that pioneer model each new quality of strength, smoothness and grace which brains can devise.

It is logical that the nation's first car should continue to lead in betterment, and in satisfaction to owners. The Haynes today exhibits not only the advantages gained through more than a quarter-century of progress, but the intensified engineering superiorities developed during the war period.

Haynes owners are proud of their cars. Their approval will help you in your decision.

Order your Haynes immediately. Our factory is already crowded with orders. To delay writing may mean delay in getting your new Haynes. Order at once.

The Haynes "Light Six" or "Light Twelve" as you prefer—in the Town Car, and in the Open Car (7-pass.), Fourdore Roadster, All-Season Sedan or Coupe. Write for catalog and address of nearest dealer today.

THE HAYNES AUTOMOBILE COMPANY

32 South Main Street

Kokomo, Ind., U. S. A.

26th Successful Year of the Haynes