

MUNKACSI

- LITTLE DECISIONS can often have tremendous consequences.

- One of these far-reaching "little" decisions awaits every man who plans to buy a new car this year.

- He can, if he chooses, buy a very fine conventional car. Chances are it will be well built, give him good value for his money.

- Or, before he signs his name to the check, he can go out and take a ride in an Airflow De Soto.

- Instantly, the difference between these two ways to travel will be obvious...the difference between Past and Future—Yesterday and Tomorrow.

- He'll see heads turn... and sense a touch of envy in admiring eyes.

- He'll find a floating-on-wings sort of quiet, and restfulness, that's as new an experience as it is delightful.

- He'll find comfort in the Airflow's back seat he never expected in any car.

- Riding between the axles, he'll wonder why all roads smooth themselves out like a carpet. Airflow's 100-horsepower engine will give him speed he never thought possible off a race track (it broke 25 world records!)

- From that day on he'll ride in greater safety than any other motorist... Airflow's unit body-and-frame of Steel around him... genuine Hydraulic Brakes under his foot.

- And now this question... before you decide, won't you ask your dealer for a ride in the 1935 Airflow? Say Yes!
