

The class bully.

SS 396.

Challenge it.

That's one way to find out what makes the '69 Chevelle SS 396 toughest in its class.

Just check its credentials.

A 396-cubic-inch 325-horsepower V8.

A beefed-up suspension system poised on 7-inch sport wheels and white lettered wide ovals.

If you want to go the whole route, order the 4-speed, the full instrumentation package, the 350-horsepower mill.

Any way you spec it out, the new SS 396 is a hundred and one percent pure car.

Pick one up at your Chevy dealer's as soon as you can.

Then watch the rest of the class step aside.

Putting you first, keeps us first.
